SOUTH CHRISTIAN.

Residence Burned—Crop Notes—
Items of Gossip.

ED. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
HOWELL, KY., June 21, 1887.

Since I last wrote you, this section has been exceedingly dry, but "Thanks be unto him who watcheth even the fall of a sparrow," the backbone of the drought was broken on Sunday evening, at least so far as Howell is concerned. The rain began a little south of Genoa and extended nearly to the Tenn line, though it did not rain to do any good either north or east of this point (a half mile distant).
The plant-beds were nearly all perched up already—and but little tobacco could be planted, and the intensely hot sun that followed this planting has about put a quietus on any prospect of a crop. The rain had of becoming either "Long Green" or "Navy Pig." I do not believe that more than 50 per cent of last year's crop is out and standing at this writing and no more can possibly be planted, the plants all being either drawn or dead.

Mr. Creed Haskins, than whom Christian Co. boasts of no cleverer or more worthy citizen, lost his home and a portion of its contents by fire on Thursday evening last. It is supposed the fire was caused by sparks from an engine on the I. A. & T. R. line, which he had just arrived at, and the fire was covered by insurance in the German Ins. Co., but Mrs.
Haskins the mother-in-law of Mr.
Haskins and her three children, who lived with Mr. Haskins, lost all of their furniture and even wearing apparel except such as they were wearing at the time, which was about 7:30 o'clock p. m.

The wheat harvest is over and I think the yield will prove a fair one and fully an average notwithstanding so much croaking among the farmers.
I don't think however any wheat can be bought here, at least not for weeks or months yet, at 60¢.

The corn crop of this neighborhood is excellent and a large crop planted.
It is now being laid by generally.
Oats are too short and thin to cut unless they could be lathered as Ben Boyd suggests and get some of your city barbers to come out with their razors.

Your correspondent had the pleasure of attending an informal reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Major to Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ham on the 9th inst. Mrs. Major gave a delicious six o'clock tea, and everybody went away happy, and all the gentlemen enjoying Mr. Ham for his good fortune in having secured so lovely and accomplished a bride to dispel the shadows of life etc. (and mend his socks.) May neither of them ever marry again is the sincere wish of their friend.

Mr. J. C. Metcalf, only son of Mrs.
V. J. Metcalf, returned on Friday last from Georgetown College this State which he has attended for 3 or more years. He won two gold medals, one for an essay the other for scholarship. Calvin (as he is familiarly known) promises to worthily fill the place he has held in this community (as far as son can fill the place of sire) which is the highest compliment that can be paid him.
Nobody killed at Herndon this week.

Dr. Matthews has gone to attend another meeting of the board of directors of the Nashville Female Seminary.

Chas. Dawson has a new pair of pants and halloo at every one who comes by with a worn pair. "Hello! why don't you get you some 'bitches'." Honore.

After Twenty-five years.
COBURN, Miss., Jan. 15, 1887.
Ever since I came out of the war, up to two years ago, I had catarrh.
At times the disease was very offensive. I tried all the doctors that I could see, and nearly every catarrh medicine that I saw advertised; but I got no permanent relief until two years ago, when I began taking S. S.
I felt immediate benefit from the medicine, and after taking six bottles I felt like a new man. When I began using the medicine I was in a very bad condition; digestion was poor, had rheumatic pains in my knees, and my feet were always cold. These unpleasant conditions were remedied at once by S. S. S.

I ceased using the medicine after the six bottles, because I felt so well that I thought I was entirely cured.
This past fall, however, I had a re-lapse—evidently I had stopped taking S. S. S. too soon. So I at once began with the medicine, and am happy to tell you that I am very much improved, my general health being excellent, and the catarrh rapidly disappearing.

I have great faith in S. S. S. for catarrh and blood impurities, and I recommend it to all my neighbors who are sick. Yours truly, C. G. Kev.

accident at Rolla, Mo.

pointed.

by Wirt Joffies at Tusculum, Sunday, about an old grudge. Both unguessed.

FULL OF FUN.

—At a Chicago wedding they use a bride.

—"Keep faith with your children." Certainly. If you promise them a licking give it to 'em.

—"How long have you been blind?" asked the judge. "Three years," replied the witness. "And what is your business?" "Post-office inspector."

French Fan.

—Employer—Young man, you don't know beasal! Employo—Don't be in-cautious in your statements, sir. I came here from a coffee factory.—New Haven News.

Smart young man (to elevated brakeman at City Hall station)—Does his train go to Fifth avenue, sah?
Brakeman (touching his cap deformally)—No, sir; this train goes to Hoboken.—N. Y. Sun.

An old lady said she could not tell her niece pies from her apple pies without cutting them, and was advised to mark them. She did so, and complacently remarked: "This I've marked T. M."—"Tis mine—and that T. M." Taint mine.—Christian at Work.

—New Customer—Is that your dog?
Hairdresser—Yes, sir. New Customer —He seems very fond of watching you cut hair. Hairdresser—It's not that, sir. Sometimes I make mistake and take a little piece off shentleman's ear.—N. Y. Observer.

A man whose face showed the effects of a fight with his wife, explained to the judge that his disfigurement was owing to the rise in iron. "How so?" asked the judge. "At least," said the prisoner, "it was an advance in nails." —Texas Siftings.

—Young Mr. B. pays $5 for opera tickets, $5 for a carriage and $5 for supper, making a total of $15. Young Mr. B.'s bedchamber stipend is $20.
Query: If young Mr. B. goes to the opera once a week for four weeks, what sum will be left for his landlady, and why?—Tid-Bits.

—Intuition is defined by a modern poet to be "the art of knowing exactly the moment when a kiss will please your best girl." If, however, you feel yourself deficient in the said art, there is only one thing to do, and that is to keep on trying until you strike the happy moment. This is the voice of experience.—Minneapolis Tribune.

—Oh, dear P! groaned young Mr.
Leatherhead sinking wearily into an office chair, "oh, dear! my head aches fearfully." "Possible?" asked old Mc. Hardox, his unsympathetic employer, "possible? then something surely must have got into it." And then the atmosphere of the counting-room seemed to grow at least twenty degrees colder.—Harvard Journal.

—"Lost time," said the parson, solemnly, "is lost forever." "So is any thing else that you lose," said the new boy from Bitter Creek. "Oh, no," replied the parson, "you may lose any thing else and find it again." "Then it isn't lost," said the new boy, and somehow the minister didn't just exactly know how to go on with the conversation. And yet he had been warned against that very boy.—Dur-dette.

WANT TO BE MEN.
An Almost Universal Feminine Desire Which May Be Satisfied.

She said she was very busy, and had no time to enjoy herself, and she wished she was a man. I wonder what she was busy about. I wonder what she had to do. She is wealthy, she is unmarried, she has every thing that any body can want. She buys every thing she needs, she knows how to take a great many useless things. She can embroider a handkerchief for a man.
She can make a crazy quilt for somebody else, who can buy a handsome one at the store. She can play a piano. She can ride on horseback.
But she doesn't know a mutton chop in its concrete shape or a piece of beef for roasting when she sees it.
She reads books, and she goes to the theater. There's no earthly thing for her to do that is useful that the world can't get on without, and yet she is bored. She says she does not enjoy herself, she finds life flat, and life dull, unprofitable. She has nothing to do but amuse herself, and yet she wants to be a man because she thinks that's precisely what a man does. Look here: did you ever see a man enjoying himself? It is the most pitiable thing in life in the way of I don't know. I don't want those amusements which are equally open to the female sex—music and books, and walks and dancing and conversation. A man having fun that is not given to ladies to have is only amusing because it raises the fellow who is looking on sober so much higher in his own eyes.

When a man gets very full and takes like and tells you that he likes you, and when he likes anybody as he likes you he likes them, and begins to confide in you all sorts of incoherent secrets that are not of the faintest consequence, he is funny. When a man tells you he has had a good time, a lovely time, ask him what he did, and you'll find he has forgotten every thing that happened, and only thinks he must have had a good time, because he's got a head on him too big for any hat. Now, an enormous proportion of the fun a man has is of that kind. All the other pleasure he knows in life he enjoys in the society of his lady friends, and it will upset all the calculations of the philosophy the best authorities have printed on human nature, if the ladies want to change places when a man's trying to get them to fall in love with him.—San Francisco Chronicle.

—A map showing the distribution of fog on the various parts of the earth has just been published by Admiral T. de Bort. The observations upon which it is based were made at 1,600 land and 112,000 marine stations.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

—Poor seeds are dear at any price.

—Newspapers pasted on walls of poultry houses make excellent lining for the inside.—Christian at Work.

—Clover hay, one of the best of foods for sheep, will greatly improve sheep that are old and out of condition.

—It is remarked that the agriculture of all countries which produce large numbers of live stock is in a flourishing condition.—St. Louis Republic.

Even two or three feeds of cooked turnips or potatoes each week is better than to omit such food altogether.
It is variety that promotes health and keeps the stock in condition.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

—The values of grass and corn are increased by feeding to stock, making meat or disposing of them in milk and butter, just as iron is made more costly by the labor which changes it to the steel knife-blade or the more delicate watch spring.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

—A hoe for use in a garden requires as much care as a scythe that is used for cutting grass. It should be sharp enough to cut off the roots of all kinds of weeds and should be moved through the soil without much exhibition of strength.—San Francisco Chronicle.

—The parsnip is a root that is not appreciated as it should be by farmers in general. It is a very rich vegetable and is esteemed by many as highly as the potato. Parsnips are easily and quickly cooked, either by boiling or baking. They are excellent sliced or halved lengthwise, and fried on a buttered griddle.—Montreal Witness.

—When fowls suddenly become unable to walk or can take but a step or two at a time, the usual trouble is paralysis, an affection of the spinal cord, which is brought about most frequently by an over-stimulating diet and results in an inability to move the limbs. It is an almost hopeless complaint to cure. Give a dose of castor oil, a teaspoonful, and keep in a warm, dry place—in the sun all that is possible. Feed sparingly of good, nutritious food.—Home and Farm.

—Some experiments carried out at the Ontario Agricultural College to test the germinating qualities of seed of various kinds ten years old have given the following percentage of germination: Tares, 90; mangolds, 72; turnips, 32; buckwheat, 15; clover, 6; timothy grass, 2; barley, oats, rye, beans and peas, 0. Several samples of most varieties were tried. In the case of beans, though ten samples failed to germinate, two tried separately gave a percentage of 35.—Troy Times.

—A Pennsylvania farmer near Philadelphia is waging a successful war on the ground hog, which, as every farmer knows, does much damage to meadows. His method is to fill a beer or porter bottle with powder, letting a fuse run through the cork. He then places the bottle in the ground hog's hole, with the fuse projecting outside, taking care to pack the earth tightly at the mouth of the hole and close up firmly all other holes leading to the home of the doomed animal. Then the fuse is fired, and the result is that all the ground hogs in the hole are killed by the concussion.—N. Y. Sun.

ENDING TIN-WARE.
How Economic Housewives Can Without Much Work Save Many a Penny.

Many dollars could be saved in the course of the year by giving attention to the little leaks that in the aggregate would make a big hole. One of these little things is the mending of tin-ware, which any woman can do if she only knows how.

Get five or ten cents' worth of muricatic acid and put into it all the zinc it will dissolve. You can probably get scraps of zinc from some tinners. Then get some soldering; I prefer the hard soldering. Whenever a leak makes its appearance in any of the tin-ware, scrape any rust off that may be around it then drop some of this acid upon it to clean it; cut a piece of the soldering and place upon the hole and hold the vessel over a burning lamp or set on the stove so that only the place at the hole will be exposed to the heat, let it stay until the soldering melts, then spread enough to cover the hole, then remove and hold in position until the soldering cools enough to harden. If you want to mend any part of a can not be exposed to the lamp or stove, then have an iron spoon to melt the solder; treat the leak in the same way as to cleaning and applying the acid; have a rod of iron heated at one end and hold it on the leak until the parts around are heated and then pour the solder on.

Our grandmothers used to prevent the wearing of the bottom of pans and buckets by putting legs of pewter on them, and we could make our tinware last many times as long by giving it legs of solder. All there is to do is to clean a place with acid, melt some solder in a spoon, and pour it on. I have heard tinners say that they could not patch tinware, but I have done it by taking a piece of bright tin, cutting it in the shape I wanted it, placing it over a hole that was too large to sol-der any other way, and pouring hot solder around the edges. It will have a well cleaned with acid and heated some.—Mrs. F. M. Cooper, in Household.

Care of Horses.
Good light is most necessary. It is more pleasant for the horse to be kept in a dark stable than for a human being to be kept in a dark room. It is very trying to the eyes when a horse is brought out into the light. Dark stables are often the cause of blindness. Ventilation is most important, not a draught from open windows or doors, but properly constructed ventilators in the ceiling to carry off foul air, which always rises and floats about near the ceiling. The temperature of a stable should not be over seventy degrees, or under forty-five degrees. Don't allow manure to accumulate behind the horses. Remove outside as frequently as possible.
When left too soon pollutes the atmosphere.—Montreal Witness.

SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN

TUESDAY, JUNE 28, 1887.

CHAS. M. MEACHAM - Editor.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR,
S. B. BUCKNER,
of Hart County.

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, J. W. BRYAN,
of Keaton County.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL,
P. W. HARDIN,
of Mercer County.

FOR AUDITOR,
FAYETTE HEWITT,
of Hardin County.

FOR TREASURER,
JAS. W. TATE,
of Woodford County.

FOR SUPT. PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
JOS. DESHA PICKETT,
of Fayette County.

FOR REGISTER OF THE LAND OFFICE,
THOMAS H. CORBETT,
of McCracken County.

FOR STATE SENATOR, SIXTH DISTRICT, ZENO F. YOUNG,
of Hopkins County.

Gen. Buckner will speak in Owensboro next Thursday, June 30th.

Cardin, Labor candidate for Governor, declines to run. There is still a chance for Thobe.

The General Baptist Association of Kentucky met in Danville on the 23rd inst. and continued in session several days.

The New York Legislature has passed a law making marriage impossible unless the man is eighteen and the woman sixteen years of age.

Sheriff Hogg, of Rowan, called for troops to keep the peace last week after the fight was over, but Secretary McKenzie was sent to Morehead and reported that the troops were not needed.

That excellent weekly paper, the Henderson Journal, has been enlarged again for the second time in two years. We are glad to note this evidence of our esteemed contemporary's continued prosperity.

The Kentucky Chautauque Assembly meets in Lexington to-day and continues to July 8th, inclusive. Preparations for an immense assemblage have been made, and the occasion is expected to be most important.

The big barbecue for the third campaign district, embracing most of the counties of the Second Congressional district, will be held at Uniontown on July 9th. Gen. Buckner, Col. Bryan and others will make speeches.

The Louisville military encampment ended Saturday and the following prizes were announced: Montgomery Greys, first, $2,000; Louisville Light Infantry, second, $1,200; Montgomery True Blues, third, $750. The Greys donated $100 of their prize money to the Masonic Orphan's Home. The celebration was not a big success financially.

Since Hon. John Feland voluntarily assumed the patronage of the convict labor bill and said he was glad of it, we have not heard so much from the Republicans about the Democratic administration being responsible for the working of convicts in competition with free labor. - Owensboro Messenger.

Gen. Buckner's speech has found its way to Col. Bradley's seriousness. He is reported to have charged its authorship to Gov. Knott. The simple, unadorned truth is, that every line of the General's speech was the offspring of his own brain and pen. It is evident that Colonel Bradley has been misled about the General's ability, as he was about his alleged facts and figures in his speeches by Republican newspaper gossip. - Frankfort Capital.

A fire supposed to be incendiary destroyed the warehouses of B. Mills Parish & Son, S. W. V. Wallace & Co., and Brannin, Hild & Glover, Louisville, Saturday morning, together with several adjoining houses. About 4,100 heads of tobacco were burned, most of which was insured. This and other heavy losses by fire in St. Louis and Danville, Va., will probably cause tobacco to go up considerably higher.

The following is the text of the prohibition amendments to be voted on in Tennessee this year:

SECTION 18.—No person shall manufacture for sale, or sell, or keep for sale as a beverage, any intoxicating liquors whatever, including wine, ale and beer. The General Assembly shall by law prescribe regulations for the enforcement of the prohibition herein contained, and shall thereby provide suitable penalties for the violation of the provision hereof.

Under the annual adjustment of post-office salaries the following Kentucky offices have been increased: Ashland from $1,400 to $1,500; Bowling Green from $1,900 to $2,000; Catlettsburg from $1,300 to $1,400; Glasgow from $1,300 to $1,400; Henderson from $1,800 to $1,900; Hopkinsville from $1,700 to $1,800; Mayfield from $1,200 to $1,300; Nicholasville from $1,100 to $1,200; Princeton from $1,100 to $1,200; Somerset from $1,100 to $1,200. None of the Kentucky offices have had their salaries lowered. Bowling Green has been advanced to a second-class office. The number of offices in the State is 1,822, of which 38 are presidential.

THE BATTLE OF MOREHEAD.

Fuller Details of the Extermination of the Tolliver Gang.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 23.—The killing of the Logan boys two weeks ago was followed by a notification from Craig Tolliver to Boone Logan to leave the county. Boone Logan is a lawyer and a quiet citizen. He left the county, and going to Frankfort consulted Gov. Knott on the situation. He was advised what course to pursue. He got into communication with Hiram Pigman, a respectable young merchant of Morehead. Pigman had been bullied by Craig Tolliver, and knew that he was in danger of losing his life at any moment by the hands of Tolliver and his murderous crew. He enlisted heartily in the scheme proposed by Boone Logan, and the two secured the active co-operation of Sheriff Hogg. The latter is an officer who is willing to do his duty. It was too palpable for argument, however, that he could do nothing without assistance.

PREPARING FOR THE EXTERMINATION. A systematic canvass of the best citizens in the county was instituted. Each man was carefully approached and asked if he would assist in bringing Tolliver's gang of outlaws to justice. The responses were very favorable. About one hundred men were secured in Rowan and another hundred in Carter and Morgan counties. To arm and equip these, Boone Logan went to Cincinnati and purchased sixty Winchester rifles. These were distributed as far as they would go, and the rest of the posse were provided with shot-guns, muskets, ordinary rifles and pistols. Meetings were held and plans of action discussed. Warrants of arrest for murder, arson, assault with intent to kill, and other crimes and misdemeanors, were issued against the following persons: Craig Tolliver, Jay Tolliver, Bud Tolliver, Andy Tolliver, Cal. Tolliver, Burke Manning, Jim Manning, John Rogers, Hiram Cooper, Boone Day, Bill Day, Tom Day, Sam Gooden, Allie Young and Z. T. Young, Jr. These warrants were placed in the hands of Sheriff Hogg, and Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock was the time designated for the capture.

GATHERING FOR THE FRAY. Wednesday morning at 3 o'clock 113 men, under the control of Sheriff Hogg, arrived in detachments at Morehead, and stationing themselves at seven different positions outside the town limits, completely surrounded the place. Their plans had been well perfected, and the execution of the scheme was so methodical that the besieged gang did not suspect their danger.

THE OVERTHROW OF TOLLIVER. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning the Tolliver forces were gathered at the American House. They were on the lookout for foes, though no one of them believed that the town was then surrounded. They were well armed as usual. Craig Tolliver had two pistols and a belt full of cartridges. It was a quarter past 8 o'clock when one of the posse, named Byron, was seen at the depot. Byron was armed with a Winchester, and the Tollivers at once opened fire on him. Byron ran, and the Tollivers pursued, keeping up the firing. This precipitated the conflict. Men sprang from behind stumps, bushes and piles of lumber. The earth seemed to swarm with armed men. A volley was poured into the Tolliver party, which at once began a hasty retreat. They fled past the American House and toward the Central Hotel. The other squads of the posse now wheeled into action, and as the guns began to crack in all quarters the desperadoes recognized the utter hopelessness of their situation. All of them but one, however, reached the Central Hotel. The one who failed was Bud Tolliver, who fell in the street with a wound that shattered his knee. He managed to crawl through a fence, and concealed himself in some tall grass.

The members of the posse wore no hats, in order that they might, by this means of identification, avoid shooting each other. The Tolliver gang soon discovered that their assailants were bare-headed and threw away their own hats. By doing this several of them escaped unhurt.

THE DESCRIPTION OF AN EYE-WITNESS. Mr. White, a drummer from Lexington, told me he witnessed the battle from a window of the cottage hotel. This hotel is south of the railroad. Said Mr. White:

"The conflict lasted for two hours and a half, and there must have been at least two thousand shots fired. The scenes were terrible. Women and children rushed about screaming and calling on the Lord to save them. Craig Tolliver and his men were soon driven from the Central Hotel. Jay Tolliver was killed on the hill not far from the hotel. Craig, bare-headed, and evidently terribly frightened, ran down the street toward the Cottage Hotel. Just as he reached the railroad, about sixty feet from my window, a bullet struck him in the leg and he fell. He partly rose up, when he was struck by another bullet in the breast. He dropped again, and endeavored to rise. He was knocked down by another bullet. There were fifteen men shooting at him. He made no effort to rise after the third attempt. As he lay there apparently dead the firing continued. Every time a bullet struck him I could see him flinch. He was twice shot through the head. The Tolliver crowd were badly demoralized, and though ordinarily good shots, were unable to use their pistols with any effect. The only man in the posse wounded was Bud Madden, who was shot in the side by Cal. Tolliver."

One of the gamest fighters in the Tolliver crowd was Cal. Tolliver, a lad of fourteen years of age and a nephew of Craig Tolliver. He stood out boldly and fired his revolver straight at the enemy, but he did no damage. He is very small for his age, and nobody tried to hurt him. He had a narrow escape, though, for a bullet passed through the seat of his trousers. When Craig Tolliver fell, this boy got to him as soon as possible, and secured the dead man's watch and pocket-book. This young boy is still at Morehead, but says he is going to Elliott to live.

Some members of the posse found Bud Tolliver, wounded and helpless, in the grass, where he had concealed himself. They placed their guns against his head and blew his brains out. Hiram Cooper was found in a wardrobe in Allie Young's room, up stairs at the Central Hotel. He was dragged from his hiding-place and killed in the room. A bullet was fired through his brain, and it went crashing against the wall, where it flattened itself and dropped to the floor. Mr. Richard Buckner Allen, of the Lexington Press, picked up the bullet this morning, and prizes it very highly as a souvenir of the battle.

CAL. TOLLIVER ESCAPES.

Cal. Tolliver crawled under a house near the Central Hotel, and remained in hiding until late in the afternoon, when he escaped to the woods. He was seen as he fled, but the gentleman who saw him refused to inform on him. Andy Tolliver, who was shot during the engagement, also made his escape. The two Mannings escaped by throwing away their hats. They crossed the river at Ashland last night, and are now probably safe in Ohio. John Rogers also managed to escape. This morning he got aboard the west-bound train, several miles from here, and went to Mt. Sterling. Allie Young was in Mt. Sterling to-day and he will be arrested for the murder of the Logan boys. He is a son of the famous Taylor Young, long a resident of this place, who now lives in Mt. Sterling. Allie is the Prosecuting Attorney for this county.

FORMING THE CITIZENS' LEAGUE.

After the battle a mass-meeting of citizens was held in the court-house, at which Boone Logan and others made speeches. A Citizens' Protective Association was formed. They adopted resolutions declaring "if any one was arrested for this day's work, we will reassemble and punish to the death any man who offers the molestation." The meeting adjourned till next Wednesday, when further steps will be taken looking to the suppression of lawlessness in the county, and the meeting out of justice to criminals.

Craig Tolliver was six feet in height, thirty-six years of age, raven-haired, and well muscled, with slightly stooping shoulders. He had light blue eyes, brown hair, and wore a sweeping mustache and a small goatee. He was true to his friends and implacable toward his enemies. That he was a game man is beyond question. He had a meager education, being barely able to read and write, but he was shrewd and cunning. He was imperious in manner when the time for real action arrived, but under ordinary circumstances he was inclined to be mild-mannered. He was a typical desperado and eminently fitted to be the master spirit in a vendetta. How many men he had killed is not definitely known, but the number was probably not large. It suited him better to direct things, to be done than to do them himself.

BLOOMINGTON, Ills., Sept. 18, 1882. Mess. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Have taken Hall's Catarrh Cure. Had catarrh all my life; am 48 years old. Had asthma 19 years, and a dreadful cough for five years. Have taken everything; went to the Hot Springs; I have doctored with the doctors here; I have done nothing but take medicine for 19 years. When I commenced using Hall's Catarrh Cure I was almost dead. I sent for the doctor the day I got Hall's Catarrh Cure, and I told him that I would die any way and that I would try your medicine. I was very bad. How I suffered for 9 years! I could hardly breathe at times. I saw Hall's Catarrh Cure advertised in the papers and commenced taking it. I would have been under the ground to-day if it had not been for that. I have not had one bad spell of coughing since. In breathing my head feels well and I am well. It has done me a thousand dollars worth of good. There are some of my friends, on seeing what it had done for me, taking it, and it is helping them. I only wish that every one who has catarrh, asthma and a bad cough could see me, so that I could tell them all to take it. All that know me here know how I have suffered. (I have been here since 1853,) and say to me that "I am so glad you found something that could cure you." I cannot express my gratitude to you for the good Hall's Catarrh Cure has done me. You can use as much of this letter as will do the afflicted good. Publish it to the whole world—it is all true and they should know it.

JOSEPHINE CHISHMAN, 406 East North St.

The Louisville Post's Mt. Sterling correspondent confounds the names of Zach Taylor Young, of Rowan county, and Zeno F. Young, of Hopkins county, and makes the genial editor of the Madisonville Times figure in the unenviable role of a mountain outlaw. There is but one Zeno Young and at present he is hunting votes as a candidate for the State Senate and not following the business of spilling blood.

The places of Messrs. Feland and Childers, on the Republican state ticket, and Cardin and Newman, on the Labor ticket, are still vacant, and the places are going begging.

The Ashland distillery at Elizabethtown was burned early Friday morning by an incendiary. Loss $8,000. The warehouse with 1,000 barrels of whisky escaped.

Democrats of Bracken and other counties have nominated W. W. Dickerson for the State Senate, over J. T. Simon.

The Republicans have nominated Geo. W. Burchett for the Legislature in Cumberland and Clinton and W. W. Brigham in Adair.

In a primary election W. W. Worrrell was made the Democratic nominee for the Legislature in Graves county.
